The bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Wendenburg, and has had a hearing before the Committee nd a hearing before the Committee in County, City and Town Organizations, in the course of which an amendment was adopted permitting the anexation of more than 25 per cent of county's taxable values, provided uch annexation is agreed to by the coard of Supervisors of the county, lenrico County authorities, who apeared before the committee, declared memselves satisfied with the amendment.

themselves satisfied with the amendment.

Another hearing on the bill was scheduled for yesterday morning, and a large delegation was on hand when the committee went into session. It was decided, however, to postpone consideration of the bill until 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, when the committee will hold a public hearing on the measure in the Senate Chamber.

Will Attend in Force.

The meeting on Wednesday evening will be attended in force by the representatives of the city government and authorities from Henrico County. The county is making a determined light to secure the passage of the bill which, it claims, is necessary to protect it against annexation, so sweeping in character as to seriously cripple its government. Counsel has been employed by the county authorities to aid it in the fight.

The proposed annexation would take from Henrico County about 50 per cent

It in the fight.

The proposed annexation would take from Henrico County about 56 per cent of its taxable values. If the Wendenburg bill should become law, it would necessitate a radical redrafting of the whole annexation ordinance.

Senator Watkins, of Chesterfield, is co-patron of the bill with Senator Wendenburg. His county, however, will not be affected by its passage or rejection, since the pending annexation program takes only 20 per cent of Chesterfield's taxable value.

Residents in the monument district have for a long time besought the city Council to remove the iron fence around the statue and improve the appearance of the grounds. Councilman Ratcliffe, of Lee Ward, sought to secure the improvement of the monument space by the city, but was unsuccessful. Governor Mann transmitted the opinion that the State was without power to dedicate to the city the monument or the plot on which it stands, since, under the terms of the statue was placed under the perpetual care of the State.

Senator Harman's bill meets the difficulty by keeping the monument under the State's control, and at the same time authorizing the Register of the Land Office to permit the improvements desired by the city. The removal of the fence, and the improvement of the grounds, it is provided, shall be at the city's expense.

REAL THING IN HOSPITALITY

If You Don't Believe It, Read What Cleveland, Woman Says.

Miss Marguerite Kelley, of Cleveland, O., a delegate to a recent educational conference here, has returned home, and announced that Richmond is certainly some hospitable city.

Miss Kelley, who is chief playgrounds instructor of Cleveland, told the reporters what happened, and this is what one wrote: "Had a grand time. Never saw such hospitality in my whole life.

"Was on a car the other night. Two girls were talking, "Wish I had some ice cream," said one. Bing! went the bell cord. Car stopped in the middle of a block, conductor got off, went into a drug store, and came back with a napkin-covered tray. Climbed back on the car, gave two bells, and then went inside, sat down between the girls, and uncovered three dishes of ice cream.

"He didn't collect any more fares the rest of the trip, but he certainly got outside of that ice cream in fine fashion."
